

Assumptions

- There is a system in place to cancel an order and return item to designated place if the customer's card declines
- There is a system in place to cancel an order and return item to designated place if the customer cancels the order
- There is a system to process payments
- There is a system to process an item that was returned because of defects that cannot be resold